HOUSE OF COMMONS.

WEDNESDAY, March 16.

PASSED the Perth road bill.

Read a second time and committed for the morrow the militia bill.

Ordered several road bills to be engrossed.

Mr Stanley presented a petition from the gentlemen, clergy, merchants, traders, and manufacturers of the town and vicinity of Manchester, &c. &c. complaining in very strong terms of the tax imposed on fustians, calicoes, and other cotton manufactures. The petition, with its signature, amounting to 80,000, formed a most formidable roll. This petition having been read at the table, Mr Stanley moved, that the same be taken into consideration on Monday.

Mr Pitt said, he did not mean to detract from the weight and respectability of those who signed the petition, or at present to attempt to invalidate its assertions, which, if substantiated, were certainly a sufficient ground of repeal; but he saw no reason why it should be fixed for hearing on Monday, when it would most probably interfere with the weighty business in which the House was at present engaged. It was true, he said, it did not require much ingenuity to connect this with the Irish business, by saying, that whatever indulgence we should grant to Ireland, ought certainly to depend on the state of our own manufactures, which therefore, demanded a previous discussion. But as the business might be considered as independent of this relation, by attending to the manner in which it affected our exports, he hoped it would rather be discussed on that ground, than be connected with a matter already sufficiently complicated and diffuse. If it could be proved, as had been asserted, that by this tax an export duty was laid on these articles, without a proportionate addition to the revenue, in that case he should be the first man to move for its repeal. But at the same time that he admitted the magnitude of the business, he did not see the necessity of pressing it forward, so as to divert the attention of the House from affairs which required their immediate attention.

Mr Fox said, the Right Honourable Gentleman, in admitting the subject of this petition to be connected with the business now in consideration, had furnished, in his opinion, a conclusive argument for giving it an immediate hearing. If the prayer of it was granted on good grounds, and the tax repealed, no objection would then lie against the indulgence which the manufacturers of Ireland were about to receive; or should the tax be modified, and its ill effects removed, the objections would, in like manner, vanish. But, for the same reason, it would be improper to proceed in the Irish business, while this matter was left undecided by the House.

Mr Stanley and Mr Egerton represented the pressing distresses of the manufacturers, who, from the present ruinous state of their business, were gradually discharged as they brought in their work. Forty thousand persons were now unemployed in consequence of the tax, the greater part of whom were at present supported by the charitable collections of the neighbourhood; a circumstance that should plead in the strongest manner against any delay.

Lord Beauchamp and Mr Burke followed the preceding members to the same purpose.

Mr Dundas said, that, as the hearing of counsel and examination of witnesses would occupy the remainder of the week, and might probably be continued on Monday; it would, therefore, be unjust to delay the witnesses already in town, by appointing an intermediate day for those who were not yet summoned.

After a long conversation, it was determined, that Monday should be appointed for hearing the petition.

Mr Burke then called the attention of the House to the case of upwards of an hundred convicts, now under sentence of transportation to an island in the river Gambia, on the coast of Africa. This place, he said, he would not stile merely an unwholesome situation; but would call it the throne and capital residence of pestilence, where destruction preyed with unceasing desolation. It seemed, he said, as if on dismissing these wretches from our sight, we were careless about their fate; and that, while we meant a relaxation of the law, there was, in fact, more cruelty in our humanity, than in the utmost rigour of justice. This, he thought an object that demanded the attention of the House; to bring it under their view, therefore, a number of motions were necessary.

On Mr Burke's going to make his first motion, containing an account of the number and crimes of the convicts, it was suggested, that it would be more eligible to submit the motions already prepared to the attention of the House; accordingly, the business, after a few observations of Mr Alderman Newham, was postponed to a future day.

Mr Pitt proposed, that certain extracts from the reports of the Committee of Council should be read. This being done, the Counsel on the Manchester petition were then called in, who went into a variety of argument in support of the different allegations.

The Counsel having withdrawn, the House then proceeded to examine the evidence referred to.

Mr Peel, an eminent manufacturer of Manchester was then examined. The questions proposed to this evidence led into a minute detail of the expenses incident to the different branches of the cotton manufacture, and a comparative statement of those in the different kingdoms, so far as could be made from his experience here, and the intelligence he had received from Ireland. It appeared from Mr Peel, that the Irish manufacturer, after paying a duty of ten one-half per cent. which was looked on as an equivalent to the internal excise of this kingdom, would, from the cheapness of labour, and exemption from taxes, still retain a superiority of at least thirteen per cent. The evidence, who employed more than 6000 persons, and paid an annual excise of 20,000*l.* was then asked, whether, under these circumstances, he should carry on the manufacture to the same extent he had hitherto done, if the present propositions were passed into a law? He replied, that he most certainly should to the same, or a greater extent, but it would be in Ireland! The question being then put, whether he knew any other manufacturers that entertained the same opinions, he affirmed, that all who had communicated their sentiments to him entertained a similar determination.

This evidence, which went out into a great length, and comprehended a variety of minute particulars, being read over to Mr Peel by the clerk, it was then proposed that the counsel should proceed, but it being past eleven o'clock, it was agreed to adjourn.

From the London Papers, March 17.

L O N D O N.

The Parliament will not be prorogued so early as was first imagined; the talk now is, soon after his Majesty's birthday.

It is said the members of the House of Commons will not have more than five days' recess at Easter.

The fishery business will be gone into immediately after the Easter recess.

On these, and other very momentous topics, which press forward for discussion, without delay, it is to be hoped, the fullest attendance will be enforced. The call should be rigidly kept up once a week, throughout the session.

On Monday last, in the House of Commons, Mr Dundas, after a few preliminary observations on the importance and necessity of the business, moved, that a Committee be appointed to enquire into the present state of the British Fisheries. Mr Dempster seconded the motion. A Committee was accordingly appointed.

The most authentic accounts from Petersburg say, that the Empress of Russia has declared to his Prussian Majesty (upon the late political negotiation) her resolution of supporting the Emperor of Germany in the exchange of Bavaria for part of the Low Countries, with all her forces.—In which case the King of Prussia will be powerfully supported by the Court of France, and, in all human probability the Empress's declaration will produce a general war.

Authentic advices from Amsterdam, dated March 9, declare, that the preparations for war are carrying on in all parts of the United Provinces with the utmost vigour and dispatch.

The same accounts assure us, that the Prince of Hesse-Darmstadt has, within these few days, entered into an alliance with the States General; and that a body of 3000 troops in the service of that prince are immediately to march to the frontiers of Holland, in case of a rupture with the Emperor.

Letters from Brussels, dated March 6, mention, that the French ministry were taking every method to influence the petty princes of the Empire in favour of Holland; but that their negotiations had not been successful, except with the Prince of Hesse-Darmstadt, who has for many years past taken the ton from the Court of Versailles.

We have undoubted intelligence from Paris of the following very important facts:

The French Minister at Berlin has written to Vergennes, that the King of Prussia's Minister at Vienna says the Emperor is determined to persist in his demands to have Bavaria annexed to his Imperial dominions. This has caused immediate orders from the King of Prussia for forage and provisions to be prepared for an army of 180,000 troops in one body, and of 80,000 in another; and he is resolved to take the field as soon as the frost will permit his troops to march. The French Ministers are eager to keep back from openly declaring, till the Emperor makes some movements; while we may be assured, at the same time, they are waiting the event of our proceedings in regard to the differences in the Cabinet.

A letter from Berlin, dated March 1, says, "The motions of the Austrian troops begin to make our Court uneasy. The three different encampments, which the Emperor intends to form next spring, seem rather designed to act offensively than defensively. It is assured that the opening of the Scheldt is not the only object which at present engages his Imperial Majesty's attention. Our Sovereign has consequently given orders for the purchase of 10,000 horses; several contractors have offered to furnish every requisite for transporting the artillery and equipage. The officers are to be supplied with horses at the King's expense. The Elector of Saxony has been solicited to furnish 12,000 of his troops to join 30,000 Prussians in establishing a camp at Konigsberg, while a Prussian army of 80,000 men is to be assembled in the environs of Schweidnitz to penetrate, if required, into Bohemia and Moravia."

By the Leeward Island mail of yesterday, there is an imperfect account of a hurricane at Jamaica, the middle of January, but the particulars are not mentioned. Two ships are said to be lost at Port-Royal.

EDINBURGH.

Extract of a letter from London, March 17.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

"The Lords in a Committee went through the bill to enable the Justices of Oyer and Terminer to sit and hold sessions for the county of Middlesex, after Easter Day.

"Read a third time and passed the mutiny bill.

"Read a second time the Beverley road bill.

"After which, Counsel were further heard on the appeal, wherein Mrs Anstruther-Paterfon, and Philip Anstruther-Paterfon, Esq; her husband, are appellants, and Stephen Bromfield, Esq; respondent. Mr Adam was heard as second counsel for the respondent. About five o'clock, Mr Hay Campbell, the Lord Advocate, concluded the arguments of the counsel, in a very able reply; after which Lord Loughborough merely moved, that it should be remitted to the Court of Session in Scotland.

"The Lord Chancellor left the woolstack pro forma, and read the motion, which was unanimously agreed to, Lord Sidney being the only Peer present, which occasioned the Lord Chancellor to smile, and observe, that there was no occasion for him (looking at the empty benches) to say any thing upon the subject. Adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

"The House of Commons met this day, and the Serjeant at Arms was dispatched in search of members to make up the number of one hundred, in order to ballot for a committee to try the merits of the late election for the county of Bedford. About four o'clock, upwards of that number were got together; but after those disqualified for sitting on a committee were counted, not enough were left to proceed to a ballot, and the House adjourned till to-morrow.

"The contested election for Bedfordshire, to try which the House could not ballot for a committee, is expected to prove a very tedious and expensive business. The sitting member is Lord Ogleby, and the petitioner the Honourable Saint Andrew Saint John.

"The call of the House stands for Tuesday next, but it will most probably be postponed to a future day.

"There is every reason to suppose, that nothing conclusive will be done respecting the commercial intercourse between Great Britain and Ireland, this side the Easter holidays, as you were some time ago informed. As to a Parliamentary Reform, it certainly will not be brought forward these three or four weeks to come, as the Irish business must first be got rid of.

"The adjusting the commercial intercourse forming between Great Britain and Ireland, becomes every day more and more serious. The minister certainly dislikes the business; and, if any conjecture is to be formed from the conduct of the Administration, as well as the language of their friends, the intended arrangement for the accommodation of Great Britain and Ireland, is more with a view of quieting the people of the latter, than to the interest of the former country."

In the conversation which took place on Wednesday last, in the House of Commons, for the repeal of the fustian and cotton tax imposed last year, in consequence of a petition presented from 80,000 people of Lancashire, Sir William Cuninghame took the liberty of reminding Mr Pitt of the petition presented from the 12,000 people of Glasgow; to which Sir William expected Mr Pitt would pay attention, as that tax bore as hard upon them, as the fustian tax does upon Lancashire. To this Mr Pitt chose to give no answer.

John Scott, Esq; of Gala, died here on Thursday the 17th. On the 17th inst. died here, Mr Robert Watt of Woodend, writer in Edinburgh.

Tuesday last, the Livingston, Gordon, from Leith, arrived in the Thames, all well.

We hear from Falkirk, that, on Friday last, one William Hugh was committed to Stirling jail by a warrant from the Sheriff. It is reported that he presented a forged receipt for payment of a bill due by him at the Sheriff-Court of Stirling.

Friday afternoon, the body of a woman was found on the Sands of Leith. From several circumstances, it appears that she had drowned herself.

Saturday afternoon, the body of a chairman in Edinburgh was found in a quarry, full of water, at the head of Burnfield Links. His great coat was lying on the bank at the top of the quarry.

Mrs Yates is arrived in this city, and is engaged to perform a few nights at the Theatre-Royal here. Her first appearance will be on Thursday, in the character of the Duchess of Braganza. (See Advertisement.)

On Wednesday evening, died at Greyfouthen, near Cockermouth, Mr Joseph Watson, in an advanced age, one of the people called Quakers, and many years a respectable flax-dealer in Whitehaven.—The same day, in Quay-street, Whitehaven, Mrs Hodgson, one of the people called Quakers, a maiden lady, and greatly respected.—Also the same day, in Seahouse-street, Whitehaven, Mrs Abigail White, widow.—It is somewhat remarkable, that these three persons formerly lived in the same house during a period of 24 years, and all died on the same day.

Lately died, Mr Joseph Bond, of Agliodby, Northumberland, one of the people called Quakers, aged 102. He had been blind for about thirty years, but retained his memory till near his dissolution.

Extract of a letter from Forfar, March 19.

"This day, Andrew Low, aged 22, was executed here in consequence of the Sheriff's sentence, for house-breaking and theft, and behaved himself with a great deal of composure and seeming sincere repentance."

Much praise is given by certain persons to his Grace of Rutland, for the commercial propositions: They may be very good; but what the people complain of is, they have not had time to consider whether they are good or not; and though they are said to be a disadvantage to Great Britain, yet every delay is there given for deliberation. The conclusion to be drawn from thence is, if a measure be good, you must not consider it, for fear you would dislike it; but if it be injurious, consider a great deal, that you may be the more inclined to agree to it. Strange doctrine—irreconcilable to common sense. Dublin Ev. Post.

When time was asked to consider of the propositions by Mr Hartley and Mr Corry, the ministerial argument was—no—don't give time to the people of England to petition against the measure; if you do, you will lose the system. Yet Mr Pitt observes quite a different mode; either, then, he is of a different opinion, or he is not a sincere friend to the measure. ib.

Mr Eden moved in the English House of Commons for an account of the duties paid on the importation of iron into Ireland, which was not complied with, on account of the indisposition of the proper officer; but Mr Rous promised they should the next day be presented. When Mr Corry and Mr Griffith sought similar information, they were answered here, that there was no proper officer to give the information. How strangely opposite is the conduct of the English and Irish Administrations? There, time after time is given for deliberation; here all is hurry: There every species of information is granted; here, the same information is refused; and yet we were told, the more we consider the propositions, the better we should like them. Let those in the secret explain the motives of this behaviour; to all others it must appear paradoxical. ib.

A mercantile correspondent takes the liberty to suggest to our House of Commons, in case the commercial propositions should be rejected in London by the British Parliament, the expediency of a resolution of the House to this effect:—

"Resolved, That any commissioner or other officer of the revenue in Ireland, pretending to explain the act of navigation in this kingdom, otherwise than the same act is explained in Great Britain, is guilty of an high misdemeanor, and an enemy to his country." ib.

Such a measure will effectually serve Ireland, by securing her West India merchants the full advantages of our own market at least. ib.

Extract of a letter from Dublin, March 12.

"We hear, that, in consequence of the conduct of the Upper House, relative to some of the money bills which were not sent back as usual to the Commons, the gentlemen of the Treasury Bench, who manage the business of the finance, are determined next session to recur to the ancient mode of including all the supply in one or two bills.

"In consequence of the Lords refusing to send back some of the money bills, the Speaker sent yesterday evening for the Lord Chancellor, and had a conference with his Lordship in his chamber. After the Chancellor's return, and a long consultation held amongst the Peers in a private conversation, the House was ordered to be cleared of all strangers, and the matter was maturely debated: What the event was, will be known this day, by the bills either coming down or being detained: Should the latter be the case, a rupture will perhaps take place between the two Houses.

"It has been usual, when any disagreement broke out between the Peers and Commons, which could not easily be adjusted, to prorogue the Parliament. Such was the conduct in the case of Ashby and White. It was also done here many years ago, when the Lords, with true patriotic spirit, declared Ireland independent of the kingdom of England, and after repeated messages could not get the Commons to join in the resolution. A speedy prorogation would not much embarrass the Minister, as the principal money bills are ready for the Royal assent. The Court business may be said to be over, and it would prevent for a time any further altercation on Parliamentary reform, attachments, Judges independence, &c. &c."

Extract of a letter from Berwick, March 15.

"The Berwick Packet, Captain Wait, went on shore upon the Fern Islands on Friday morning last. The crew and most part of the cargo are saved. She was one of the best smacks belonging to the Old Fishing Company, and her loss is estimated at upwards of 1400l."

To the Printer of the Caledonian Mercury.

S I R,

BEING out of town last week, I had not an opportunity of seeing your paper of Wednesday last, nor the Advertiser of Friday, until Sunday evening. To my utter astonishment, I read a paragraph in both of these papers, in which my character is, in the highest degree, interested, both as a magistrate and a man.

From the article in the papers, as alleged to have been contained in the oath of Middleton emitted in the trial of Stewart and Gordon, it would appear, and seems to imply, that it was the general practice in the investigation of crimes, for all persons, under accusations not capital, to be flogged into confession; and for such confessions to have been afterwards used against the persons from whom they had been extorted.

If such was the case, there is no censure or punishment to which, I do acknowledge, I ought not to be subjected: But as the story, as said to have been told by the witness, is contrary to the fact, it becomes necessary to state the case as it really stands.

From the great number of boys in this place that commit crimes, and are not objects of public trial and punishment, it has been in use, after repeated transgressions, sometimes to order them a private chastisement, and to dismiss them. Stewart and Fraser had been repeatedly before me as thieves and pick-pockets, and were both banished the county in February 1784. After which they were again taken up for house-breaking; and Fraser was, on that occasion, ordered a private chastisement, and then dismissed. Stewart was dismissed without being chastised: But Stewart was not present at Fraser's chastisement, nor were any declarations whatever taken from them at the time; and there never was an instance of any person receiving any chastisement, except incorrigible boys, who were not then of age to be made proper objects of public trial.

It is subject of regret that I was not present during the witnesses examination; and that the counsel on either side did not send for me after it was concluded, as it would have afforded me an opportunity of giving immediately the explanation I have now done, and which, I make no doubt, would have been satisfactory to the Court and them. I am, Sir,

Your humble servant,
AR. COCKBURN.

Sheriff-Clark's Office,
Edin. 21st March, 1785.

By the Right Honourable the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the City of Edinburgh.

The letter, of which the following is a copy, having been given in to the Lord Provost, the same is submitted to the consideration and animadversion of the public.

My Lord, Edinburgh, 18th March, 1785.

THE Principal Heritors of the street called the Cowgate, apprehending that the Bridge, intended to be built across the Cowgate, will considerably diminish the value of their properties, they presented a petition to your Lordship and the Magistrates, signifying that they would not wish to oppose a scheme which will be beneficial to the community at large, and an ornament to the city; but as it will be an advantage to their properties, and of great general utility to have a street of communication from the High-Street to the Cowgate, they make no doubt but the Honourable Magistrates will listen to this desire of the Heritors of the Cowgate, provided the expence of this street of communication shall bring no expence upon the public. The draft of the bill takes in an area of one hundred and fifty feet westward from the west wall of the Tron Church, and from that southward two hundred feet; and what the Heritors of the Cowgate would humbly propose is, that your Lordship and Magistrates may be pleased to add to this part of the bill the houses on the west side of Merlin's Wynd, and both sides of Peebles Wynd, southward from the above-mentioned two hundred feet to the Cowgate; and if the Trustees shall find, that there is any probability that the proposed communication will be attended with expence to the public, the Heritors of the Cowgate shall not insist on its being executed, though included in the bill.

We are, with great respect,
My Lord,
Your Lordship's most obedient and most humble servants, &c.

By permission of the Lord Provost.

FEUS in Island of LEWIS.

THE Island of Lewis, on the north-west coast of Scotland, has been pointed out by many intelligent persons as the best adapted situation in this kingdom for carrying on the Fishing Trade.

Francis Humberston-Mackenzie, Esq; of Seaford, the proprietor of this Island, being very desirous to promote that valuable and useful branch of trade, is resolved, for the encouragement of fishers and industrious persons who may incline to settle there, to let off, in feu or perpetuity, such lots of ground as shall be thought necessary for carrying on trade at a small quit rent, and on the most liberal terms.—The town of Stromness, in this Island, is already become a flourishing place for trade; has upwards of twenty decked vessels belonging to the port, with a custom-house, post-office, &c. There is at present a feu of a lot of 700 square yards and upwards on the quay, with a tolerable good house, to be disposed of: The feu-duty 15s. and 4d. only.

Persons inclining to take feus, may apply to the said Francis Humberston-Mackenzie, Esq; M.P. London, or to his factor, George Gillanders, Esq; by Bauly, N. B. or to Alexander Mackenzie writer to the signet, in Edinburgh.

The following brief account may prove Matter of additional Consolation to those afflicted with any Scorbute Eruption, from the most trifling Appearance on the Skin, to those virulent Ulcers which ultimately endanger the Limbs.

MR WATTS, of Charlotte Buildings, near

Gray's Inn, London, was many years subject to an inveterate scurvy from head to foot, which rendered it necessary for him to wear an almost universal bandage. His hands, in particular, were so severely affected, that the nails of his fingers loosened by the humour which corroded them. In this melancholy situation, after various fruitless attempts of the Faculty, he had recourse to Mr HAYMAN's Maredant's Drops, TEN bottles of which made him perfectly whole.

MARCH 1, 1785.

These drops continue to be sold at Mr Hayman's house, and Elaboratory for preparing them, in Great Marlborough Street, London (removed from Queen-Street, Golden-square), at 5s. 5d. per bottle, duly included; where may be had a small Treatise manifesting their virtues in many well-authenticated cures.

Observe, that each direction-bill of the Genuine Maredant's Drops is signed by John Hayman, in his proper hand-writing; and that he has appointed them to be sold by all his predecessor's (the late Surgeon Norton's) agents in the Kingdom;

Particularly at the following places:

Messrs Husband, Elder, and Company, Edinburgh; Mr Angus Macdonald jeweller, Glasgow; Mr A. Wylie, Dumfries; Mr Gordon druggist, Aberdeen; Mr Phorson, Berwick; Mr Jollie, Carlisle; Miss Furness, Wigton; Mr Graham, Alnwick; and of Mr Humble, at Mr Hodgson's, Newcastle.

The Barony of Duchrae holds of the Crown, and stands rated in the cess-books at 925 l. 6s. 8d. Scots.

It lies on the river Dee, by which, and a canal from the Lock of Carlingwork, most of the best quality for improving the grounds is easily got at a cheap rate.

EXTENSIVE AND COMMODIOUS

GRASINGS for SHEEP & BLACK CATTLE,

TO LET IN PERTH-SHIRE.

THE extensive and valuable Grasing of Lochgary and Dalnispiddie, within the parish of Blair of Athole, county of Perth, and in the natural possession of the proprietor, and unoccupied by any tenants at present, are to Let for such a number of years as can be agreed upon, from Whitfunday first.

These Gratings are of very great extent, over a range of excellent hill and pasture ground, along both sides of Lochgary and the adjacent glens, for many miles, besides a considerable quantity of remarkable fine meadow ground, which may be cut for hay, so that this Grasing is uncommonly well adapted for sheep pasture and store farms, or for black cattle, and is justly deemed, without any exaggeration, to be inferior to no Grasing in Scotland, in quality and other advantages, particularly in the easy and convenient access to markets in the four countries, by the great road leading to Perth and Edinburgh through Athole, and that leading by Brier to Stirling, Glasgow, &c. as these roads pass immediately along these lands and grangings.

Duncan Robertson the ground officer, near the well-known stage or inn of Dalnacardoch, on the great military road from Inverness to Fort Augustus, will show the premises; and persons intending to offer, will please, on or before the 20th of March current, apply to Colonel Macdonald the proprietor at Teymount near Perth, or send their offers in writing, to Mr William M'Donald writer to the signet, Palace Street, which shall be kept secret if not agreed to.

JUDICIAL SALE OF LANDS

IN THE SHIRE OF DUMFRIES.

TO be SOLD by public roup, within the Parliament or New Session-house of Edinburgh, upon Thursday the 18th of July next, betwixt the hours of four and six afternoon, the following LANDS which belonged to John Graham of Corriellaw.

LOT I. The Lands of CORRIELAW and NEWTON, alias THIEF-CLEUGH, lying in the parish of Drydale, and shire of Dumfries. The proven rent after all deductions, is L. 37 12 5 9-12ths. And the proven value, being held of a subject-superior, at 23 years purchase, is L. 865 7 0 8-12ths.

The teinds are deducted from the rent, and amount to 221 Sterling, but the proprietor has been in use only to pay 21. 4s. 0d. 6-12ths Sterling annually of teind duty, the superior paying the stipend; and it is probable, that no higher demand will be made for the teinds in future, which is a circumstance of considerable advantage to the purchaser, as no value is put upon the free teind in fixing the above upset price.

This farm consists of about 300 acres, which is mostly arable, and the remainder is good pasture. There is an onstead of houses lately built by the proprietor, and the lands lie within a few miles of the market towns of Ecclefechan and Lockerby, and are pleasantly situated on the water of Corrie.

LOT II. The Lands of BURNHEAD and Teinds thereof, lying in the parish of Tundergarth, and shire of Dumfries.

The proven rent, after all deductions, is L. 21 2 0. And the proven value, being held of a subject-superior at 23 years purchase, is L. 485 6 0.

This farm, which is situated upon the water of Milk, consists of about 130 acres, all arable and meadow, and mostly inclosed. It is capable of great improvement, being in the neighbourhood of limestone quarries.

LOT III. A Decree of Adjudication at the instance of the said John Graham, against John Carruthers of Bogside, adjudging the lands of Bogside for payment of two sums, which amount, with interest, to L. 467 18 0.

And which is to be set up at that sum.

The articles of sale and progress may be seen at the office of Mr Kirkpatrick, Depute Clerk of Session, and further information will be got by applying to Mungo Dobie writer in Lockerby, factor upon the subjects.

TO be SOLD, by public roup, on Thursday the 23d June 1785, betwixt the hours of six and seven afternoon,

I. The Barony of CLOWDEN, alias NEW-

ARK, lying in the parish of Kirkpatrick Irongray, and shire of Kirkcubright, comprehending the lands and farms of Rowton Bridge, Upper, Nether, and Mid Dalwhain, Lagg, Rouchtree, Hallhill, Cobholm, Newark Braes, Whinnyhill, Ingelston, Gatefide, or Kirkpatrick and Clowden, with the corn, barley, and wheat mills, a salmon-fishing in the river Clowden, and the vice patronage of the parish of Kirkpatrick Irongray.

This estate is of a remarkable good soil, well inclosed and subdivided with stone dykes, and thriving full-grown hedges; it is at present in good condition, and there is sufficiency of shell marle upon it to keep it so. It contains about 1870 acres, whereof 1500 are arable and meadow, about 90 wood land, and the remainder very good pasture. The present rent is 881 l. 6 s. 1 d. Sterling, but a considerable rise may be depended on at the expiry of the current lease. It holds of the Crown, and stands rated in the cess-books at 1260 l. 10 s. Scots. The teinds are valued, and the purchaser will have right to them.

The woods are well inclosed, and very thriving; at last cutting they fold for upwards of 700 l. Sterling, exclusive of the woods on Hallhill, which are presently fit for sale.

This estate is pleasantly situated on the banks of the river Clowden, within three miles of the town of Dumfries, and it has many delightful situations upon it for building a mansion-house, which would command the view of the rivers Nith and Clowden, the town and port of Dumfries, the whole Gentlemen's seats in that rich and populous neighbourhood, the Solway frith, and the Cumberland hills.

II. The lands of Over and Nether BARNCLEUGHS, lying in the said parish and county, within a mile and an half of Clowden, consisting of about 200 acres, whereof 160 are arable, and 19 mofs, where there is an inexhaustible quantity of shell marle.

These lands are all sufficiently inclosed and subdivided with good stone walls. The present rent is only 50 l. but when the current lease expires, four years hence, a considerable rise will be got.

The teinds are valued, and the purchaser will have right to them.

III. The lands and estate of GELSTON, lying in the parishes of Kelton and Buittle, and county aforesaid, comprehending the farms of Boreland and Gelston, with the mill and mill-lands; and Craigley in the parish of Kelton, and Cull in the parish of Buittle, containing about 1360 acres, all of an exceeding rich quality, well inclosed and subdivided, with stone walls, and full grown fencible hedges.

On this estate, there is a good Mansion-house and offices, with a garden and orchard, and some thriving plantations; and an inexhaustible quantity of shell marle for improving the same, and for sale to the neighbouring heritors.

The estate is Let to good tenants, at 600 l. 15 s. Sterling, of yearly rent; the whole holds of the Crown, and the lands of Boreland afford a freehold-qualification on the old extent. The teinds are valued, and the purchaser will have right to them in the parish of Buittle, and to a current tack of the teinds in the parish of Kelton.

The situation of Gelston is very convenient and inviting, being within three miles of the sea-port of Aulcarn, on the Solway frith, and two miles of the great military road leading from Carlyle to Portpatrick, to both of which there are good roads.

IV. These parts of the Barony of GLASNICK, lying in the parish of Penningham and county of Wigton, comprehending the farms of Over and Nether Glasnicks, Killeal, Kirkchrist, and Kilmorye, with a salmon-fishing in the river Bladnoch, and the superiority of the lands of Drumroy and Carlisle, lying in the parish of Kirkcowan, and county of Wigton.

These are good grazing lands, both for black cattle and sheep. The present rent, including the feu-duties in Kirkcowan parish, is only 114 l. 12 s. 9 d. 6-12ths, but the tenants paid large grassums in 1766, when their leases commenced; so in 1787, when they expire, a great rise may be depended on, large offers being already made. The teinds are valued, and the tenants pay all the public burdens, stipend excepted.

V. The farm of CULSCADDEN, in the parish of Sorbie and county of Wigton, also part of the said Barony of Glasnicks, let at 160 l. per annum, consisting of about 290 acres, all good arable land, except about 15 acres lying on the Bay of Wigton, and having a safe port for exporting the produce of the lands.

This farm is all inclosed and subdivided, has within it an inexhaustible quantity of shell marle, and sea shells; and the kelp on the shore yields from ten to twelve guineas every third year.

The teinds are valued.

The title-deeds, conditions of sale, tacks, rentals, plans, and measurements of the several estates before-mentioned, will be seen in the hands of William Campbell writer to the signet; and for further information apply to Alexander Farquharson accountant in Edinburgh, who has power to sell by private bargain.

John Linton in Gatefide, near Dumfries, will shew the estate of Clowden, Mr Heron, jun. of Ingelston, the estate of Gelston, and Mr Cockburn at Cree-bridge, the lands in Wigton-shire.

For Marthabraq, Montego Bay, Lucea, and the adjacent parts,

JUDICIAL SALE OF DURN.

To be Sold by public roup, under authority of the Court of Session, within the Parliament-house, Edinburgh, upon Friday the 22d of July 1785, between the hours of four and six afternoon,

ALL and Whole the Lands, Barony, and Estate of DURN, with the Teinds and Mill of the same, lying in the parish of Fordyce and shire of Banff; the proven free rent whereof, exclusive of the cess, which is paid by the tenants, is 721 l. 6 s. 4 d. 3-12ths, and the upset price 19,467 l. 10 s. 6 d. The valued rent is 952 l. Scots; and those parts of the lands held of the Crown, entitle the proprietor to a freehold-qualification in the county.

The estate is reckoned to contain about 1600 Scots acres, exclusive of a share in an undivided common and mofs. It is situated within a quarter of a mile of that populous flourishing sea-port town called Portferry, five miles from Banff, and three from Cullen, through all which the great post-road leads, and in that district of the shire called the BOWNE, remarkable for its excellent soil and climate, fertile in all kinds of grain, and of late much distinguished for a spirit of improvement.—The estate is well tenanted, most of the leases nearly expired, and, upon a renewal, it is expected will yield more than double the present rent.—The lands abound with lime-stone, marble, and whin-stone quarries; and on the hill of Durn there are great quantities of white stone, fit for potteries, for which advantageous offers have been made. The lands are also well accommodated with the means of improvement, as the barony has a servitude on the inexhaustible mofs of Park, and, from their vicinity to water-carriage, coal, and every other necessary, are easily procured. The Gardens of Durn are very extensive, and well stocked with fruit-trees of the best kinds; a considerable part of the estate contiguous to the house is inclosed and subdivided with whin and thorn hedges, with belts of thriving young plantations, which renders the parks remarkably warm and well sheltered. There is likewise a good deal of old planting about the house, on which no value is put.

A new house may be set down at a little distance from the old one, on a more elevated and most eligible spot, in the middle of a rich loamy field of forty acres, well supplied with spring and running water, and diversified with most delightful and extensive prospects of the Moray Frith and adjacent country.

The articles of roup are to be seen in the office of Mr Alexander Ross, depute-clerk of session; and the rental with a measurement of the estate, in the hands of Andrew Stewart jun. writer to the signet, agent in the sale; to whom, or Mr Keith Dunbar, depute-clerk of Session, intending purchasers may apply for other particulars. A plan of the estate lies with Mr James Duff at Banff, factor appointed by the Court; and John Ross, gardener at Durn, will shew the grounds.
